

Job van der Heijden

Job van der Heijden has a masters degree in Medical Informatics from the University of Amsterdam and a PhD in telemedicine evaluation research at the Academic Medical Centre.

As head of research and development at KSYOS Health Management Research Van der Heijden is responsible for several research lines and PHD projects in various fields of telemedicine e.g. telepulmonology, telecardiology and teleophthalmology. And also overseeing all development of the KSYOS telemedicine software platform currently used in The Netherlands.